MAD DOG IN ARENDTSVILLE

PONY BITTEN IN NOSE AND A NUMBER OF DOGS BITTEN.

Twelve Year Old Boy Shoots the Dog—A Killing and Quarantining of Dogs.

On last Wednesday an unknown black and tan hound passed through Arendtsville creating a great excitement in that usually quiet town. The dog beyond all question was a furious rabid dog, biting and snapping at everything in its path.

William Beck was driving a pony in a buggy, and as the dog passed the animal he jumped at it and sank his teeth into its nose. The horse bled profusively. The mad dog made a tour of the town biting at least a dozen dogs in Arendtsville and a number in the vicinity.

About a dozen men and boys armed themselves with rifles and shot guns and followed the dog. Wilson Raffensperger a twelve year old boy, joined in the chase and succeeded in coming up with the mad dog at Beechersville and with a load from his gun killed him. No one at Arendtsville knows who owned the dog and it is supposed to have come from a distance.

On his rampage the dog entered several pigpens in the neighborhood of the Frank Cole farm, biting several of the swine in that locality. A number of the dogs in and around Arendtsville that were bitten have been killed by their owners.

Dr. Moriarty, agent and inspector for the State Live Stock Sanitary Board was notified and when he reached Arendtsville succeeded in placing all dogs in quarantine that were exposed to the rabid dog and had not been killed. Owners of dogs outside of Arendtsville that could not be reached were mailed quarantine orders as well as the owner of the pony bitten.

MARRIAGES.

Wood—Hardy.

On July 27 at Gettysburg by Rev. Dr. J. A. Clutz, Grant Wood of Emmitsburg and Miss Nora Hardy of Chambersburg.

Glatfelter—Schrum.

On July 27 at the home of the bride near East Berlin by Rev. W. A. Yeisley, Ursinus T. Glatfelter, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Glatfelter of East Berlin and Miss Alice Alverta Schrum of Hamilton township.

Spalding—Bagott.

Maurice J. Spalding, of New York City, a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Spalding, of Littlestown, and Miss Nellie Bagott, of the same city, were recently married.

The wedding of Rev. W. W. Barkley, pastor of the Reen Memorial church of St. Louis, and Miss Margie Miller, daughter of Mrs. Annie Miller, of Carlisle street, will take place tomorrow, Thursday.

Oil Derrick Rises in the Air.

Three riggers of oil derricks arrived from Bradford county last week and began work on last Wednesday on the erection of the first derrick in Adams county to be used for the purpose of discovering whether the next oil field to be opened is located in Adams county. The riggers got to work immediately upon their arrival and have gone ahead rapidly expecting to have the first derrick complete by the end of this week.

Mr. Oviatt of Bradford county is awaiting to be notified that derrick is finished and he will start here with his drills and it will not be many days before the drill starts on its journey downward.

F. H. Lewis and F. J. Phelan, officers of the company residing at Waterbury, Conn., arrived on Monday and went to the mountain yesterday where they will spend part of this week.

A party composed of Judge S. McC. Swope, Hon. W. T Ziegler, Hon. R. Wm. Bream, D. M. Wolf and John Kimple visited the field of operations last week.

THE Millersville Normal School will open for the fall term on Tuesday, September 10th. Comfortable rooms in either the ladies' or gentlemen's building may be engaged by writing to the Principal. The "final" examination was held by the State Board of Examiners on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 18, 19 and 20. The record of more than twenty years in this school was not broken at this examination. All of the students in every course passed the examination by the State Board. This is a record held by no other school, and the Millersville State Normal School has a just reason to be proud of it.

Picture Returned.

In the death of Miss Mary McAllister came the final chapter of an interesting story of her life. When the young West Pointer Dailey called upon her in May she showed him some keepsakes, among them several pictures of his father, who had brought the sword of Gen. Archer to Miss Mary to keep and afterwards returned to claim it and recovered it as told of in a May issue, 1907, of the COMPILER.

The young man specially asked for one picture of his father in uniform, saying the family had no copy of the picture. Miss Mary replied that she was unwilling to part with the picture, but giving him another which he said he would highly prize, told the son that when she passed away the picture he wanted would be sent him. Last week this picture was mailed by W. A. Scott, Esq., to the family of the soldier of '63 at their home in Council Bluffs.

Reading of the recent death of Miss Mary McAllister, writes a correspondent, brings to my mind an incident which took place in her store during the war. I happened to be in her store one day when a loud mouthed blatant drummer came in. It was at a time when the Union army had been meeting with reverses. He was very bold in finding fault with the government and praising the Rebels. I could see the color rising in Miss Mary's face and felt a snubbing was due the drummer. She said nothing until he had exhausted his vocabulary of sympathy for the Rebs and had told her he represented a certain house in the city and had called to sell her a bill of goods. Then she replied, "What! you sell me a bill of goods; not likely, after hearing such talk from you I would not buy your goods if you gave me them at half price and the quicker you get out of this the better for you." The drummer picked up his traps and left without saying goodby.

Will Contest.

The will of Mrs. Annie Beecher, late of Waynesboro was recently offered for probate at Chambersburg. The deceased lived for a long time on Emmitsburg road near this town. By her will $25 is given to Howard S. Geiselman, her adopted son, $25 to Joseph Taylor of Fayetteville, a brother and $50 to Mrs. Mary Rowe of Fountaindale a sister. The residue of her estate is given to Mrs. James B. Hoover and Jas. B. Hoover is named as executor. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover at one time lived here, Mr. Hoover being employed by A. J. Smith in his tinware and stove store. The estate is said to be worth $1,300. The deceased died at the Hoover home. The Waynesboro "Record" states that the will be contested but grounds of same have not been made public.

Adams County Picnic.

The Adams County picnic at Mt. Holly Park on Thursday, August 8 affords an opportunity to Churches, Sunday Schools and other organizations to make it their picnic. Catalpa Speciosa Treee.

This will be the future timber of this country. The railroads have invested millions of dollars in this timber for cross ties and telegraph poles for the future. This timber is the native forest tree of the lower Wabash Valley. In 6 years this timber will grow large enough for posts and rails, which will last, exposed to all kinds of weather, from 85 to 90 years. Split shingles on houses in its native country last over 100 years. These trees while growing, are clad in myriad robes of beautiful foliage of flowers. Every new home in the county should have a few of these trees in the yard as they are fast growers. We will have a few thousand of these valuable trees which can be transplanted from our gardens in September and October, 1907. We secured a few seeds at a big expense last winter. We will sell the trees at $3 per 100, less than a 100, 5 cts. each. We will have at the same time 80,000 fine large Ginseng Plants which we will sell at 50 cents per 100. The above in city nurseries are quoted at $10 per 100. Every person should assist in introducing this long lasting timber in this county. Call at our gardens, or address

COMPLETED LIVES OF WEEK

SAMUEL H. EICHOLTZ, JUSTICE OF PEACE FOR 25 YEARS

He Was Overcome While at Work in Garden from a Stroke and Slowly Succumbs.

Samuel H. Eicholtz died at his home, corner of Broad St. and Carlisle road, on last Wednesday, aged 63 yrs., 6 months and 6 days. On the Friday evening previous he was helping at some work in the garden and suddenly complained that he could not see. His wife helped him to the house and he became unconscious and was in that condition many hours. He never rallied from the stroke. For several years his health had been frail. He was the oldest son of the late John Eicholtz who had been Clerk of the Courts and for a long time Steward of the Almshouse. The deceased acted as deputy for his father while Clerk of the Courts and became familiar with legal affairs, and for twenty-five years gave satisfactory service as Justice of Peace in Cumberland township, transacting a large amount of business belonging to that office.

He was a veteran of the Civil War having been largely instrumental in recruiting Co. A, of the 165d Regt. Pa. Vol. Inf., getting 64 of the company from this county. He enlisted in Feb. 1865, and was mustered in as 2d Lieutenant of his company and was mustered out in same capacity at end of the war. He took part in the conveyance of Rebel prisoners from Roanoke Island to Newberry, N. C. He was a wagon maker by trade. He enjoyed the friendship of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

He was married to a Miss Grimes who survives him with two children, one daughter, Miss Grace Eicholtz at home, and a son, J. Allen Eicholtz, who was in California when last heard from. Three brothers and two sisters survive. John Eicholtz, of Cumberland township; Jacob Eicholtz, of Illinois; J. W. Eicholtz, Mrs. Clara Deatrick and Mrs. Wm. Benner, of this place.

The funeral was held on last Friday afternoon, Rev. Dr. J. A. Clutz conducting the services, with interment in the Evergreen cemetery and a burial squad from the Sons of Veterans Reserves doing him the last honors as a veteran.

Mrs. Annie Hartley, wife of Howard Hartley, of the firm of Dougherty & Hartley fell asleep on Monday morning at about 6 o'clock. Though the coming of death had been a daily fear yet the falling of the blow was an overwhelmingly sad one to this community.

Mrs. Hartley expected to become a mother in a few months. About a month ago she took a ride in an automobile. The streets and roads have been unusually rough this year and many of those who ride in autos have been seen to be roughly thrown about. Such was her experience and the result of the ride was to bring on a premature birth, which caused blood poisoning and for days her life has been hanging on a thread. Dr. Meisenhelder of York had been called into consultation with Dr. Dickson of this place and a trained nurse from Harrisburg had taken charge of the care of Mrs. Hartley, but medical science and skillful nursing were powerless to save her.

Mrs. Hartley was a Miss Artman of Philadelphia. While visiting her sister, Mrs. Williams, a former resident, Mr. Hartley made the acquaintance of Mrs. Hartley and marriage followed several years later. Mrs. Hartley formed many warm friendships here, drawn and held by her many virtues and charms. She was a devoted wife and mother and her family of four interesting little children, Mahlon, Justine, Robert and Ida Elizabeth, bright, happy little ones, have been favorites with all those who love children.

The funeral will be held on this Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

Rev. William Garretson, of Carlisle, dropped dead in the harvest field at the home of Emanuel Chronister in Hamilton township, on July 17, aged 62 years. He was a minister of the Presbyterian faith and had been selling a religious book known as the 20th Century Testament and on his trips into this county had been stopping with Mr. Chronister. Apparently he was in excellent health and after eating a hearty supper volunteered to go into the harvest field. He went to work with a will and while working dropped to the ground and when the other men reached his side he was dead.

Squire R. M. Straley, of New Oxford, held an inquest with a jury composed of Ambrose Staub, John W. Sheetz, Howard Mummert, Edward Chronister, Wm. Bubb and W. A. Miller, and they brought in a verdict that death was due to apoplexy.

The body was taken to Carlisle and funeral held there on Saturday, July 20. He is survived by a wife and nine children.

Miss Sarah Stouffer, who lived with Miss Salome Moul, of East Berlin, died on July 16 from cancer of the liver, aged 73 years, 6 months and 23 days. She had suffered greatly during last two weeks of her life. The funeral took place on Friday, July 19, Rev. Shelhamer conducting the services. She was a faithful member of the Reformed church and was buried at Holtzswam church. She is survived by one brother and three sisters. H. W. Stouffer and Mrs. Louisa Gochenaur, of East Berlin; Mrs. Michael Hoffheins, of New Oxford, and Mrs. James Witherow, of Harrisburg.

Mrs. Decker, wife of Hon. William Decker, died at her home at Macungie, Lehigh county, aged about 30 years. She is survived by her husband and one child 1 year old. Mr. Decker, a member of the last Pa. Legislature, is a son of County Auditor and Mrs. J. G. Decker, of Hamilton township.

Mrs. Hannah Day, wife of Jacob Day, died at her home near Idaville last week, aged about 73 years. Interment was made at the United Evangelical church at Idaville.

Mrs. Nancy J. Blocher, wife of Guy Blocher, died at her home in Littlestown on Monday of last week, aged 21 years, and 3 months. On Tuesday, July 16, Mrs. Blocher had given birth to a daughter and her death was a great shock to her many friends and relatives. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Izer, of Littlestown, and is survived by her husband, her daughter Geraldine, her parents and three sisters and two brothers, Elora Izer, of Baltimore; Margaret, Dorcas, Walter and Stewart Izer at home. The funeral was on Wednesday of last week, Rev. Carl Mumford conducting the services, with interment in Mt. Carmel cemetery, Littlestown.

Theodore Tracy, of Lineboro, Md., died on July 19, aged 62 years, 11 months and 3 days. He was the father of Grover Tracy a member of the Junior Class of Gettysburg College.

Augustus Mickley died at his home in Cashtown on Monday morning aged 82 years. He had been sick for quite a while with heart trouble and other complications. He was born and lived his entire life in Franklin Twp. He had been a carpenter by trade and also followed farming. He was a member of the Reformed church of Cashtown and enjoyed the respect of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. He leaves a wife, who was a Miss Stover and is about of the same age, three sons and two daughters, Elliott Mickley of Waynesboro, Mervin Mickley of Franklin township, John Mickley at home, Mrs. Tobias Coover of Virginia and Mrs. Harry Bucher of Cashtown. The funeral will be held tomorrow—Thursday—morning at 9 o'clock, services by Rev. E. W. Stonebraker, interment at Flohr's graveyard. He was the father of the late Mrs. Geo. D. Thorn of this place. He is survived by one brother, Charles Mickley of near Orrtanna, who is nearing the four score and ten mark.

Resolutions.

The Wardens and Vestry of the Memorial Church of the Prince of Peace, Gettysburg, at a special meeting on the 23rd., day of July, A. D. 1907, place on record the expression of their deep sorrow for the loss of their beloved and revered Rector, Rev. Edward Hyde True, M. A., and their hearty thanks to God for the wonderful grace and virtue declared in him. His learned and pious ministry to his people here was almost of an angelic nature in its fervor and fidelity, and in its abundant blessings upon them. We did not fully comprehend its intrinsic value, until now bereft of it. His memory was filled with the words of God's Law. He faithfully administered the Holy Sacraments, and by his life and doctrine set forth the true and living Word. His presence was itself a benediction. We and our children cannot but mourn that we shall no more see his benignant face and hear his loving and gracious words. May God comfort his bereaved widow and children, his relatives and friends, and his devoted people, who were so highly favored with his faithful ministrations, so suddenly terminated and give us all grace to follow the example of his steadfastness in the faith and with him be partakers of the Heavenly Kingdom.

Don't Forget This Picnic.

THE Order of Independent Americans will hold a Picnic and Dance at Round-Top on July 31st, afternoon and evening. The object is to raise enough funds to go in a body to Harrisburg in September to participate in the large parade which will take place in that city on the 17th or 18th of Sept. Everybody turn out and help the boys along. By the kindness of Mr. Turner they will be allowed to sell special tickets for that day only. Everybody buy tickets from the stores and places named and help along in this way. Tickets on sale at Eagle Hotel, Henry Kalbfleisch's, Amos Eckert's and C. B. Kitzmiller's.

The Citizens Band of Gettysburg will give a concert in the evening.

Serious Railroad Crime.

On last Thursday on the return trip from the Lutheran reunion at Pen-Mar with a long crowded train, the coupling between the fifth and sixth cars from rear was parted by parties on the train and the five rear cars separated from the train. The parting of coupling put on the brakes and was at once noticed by the crew in charge of the train and an awful accident was averted. The parting took place on a steep down grade.

On Monday Marshall Richardson of Fairfield Station and Frank Cumberland of Iron Springs were arrested on the information of C. D Bennett, special officer of the W. M. R. R. charged with turning, moving and diverting the coupling or machinery and lever, coupling certain passenger cars, on a track of the W. M. R. R. thereby uncoupling and separating five passenger cars from the rest of the cars and body of said train, thereby cutting in two said train with intent to obstruct, injury and destroy the cars used on said railroad and to endanger the safety of all the persons travelling and being upon said railroad train.

One of the young men arrested is 21 years of age and the other 23 years old. They were arrested by Charles H. Wilson and brought before justice of Peace John L. Hill, on Monday and in default of $1000 bail each to answer the charge at the August Court, were committed to jail.

The charge made is a most serious one and so recognized by the law, which provides a maximum punishment upon conviction of a $10,000 fine and ten years imprisonment.

Salary Instead of Rebate.

The Lutheran Reunion Comittee at Penn Mar last Thursday decided to accept the proposition of the Western Maryland Railroad on the question of rebate. The proposition was the same made and accepted by the Reformed Board of Managers, that instead of the rebate which the Inter-State Commission has decided is illegal, the railroad will pay the Secretary of the Reunion Board or Committee a salary equal to the usual rebate. The salary the secretaries will use for the reunion expenses. The understanding of those serving as secretaries will be that any surplus over expenses will be turned over to the reunion treasuries.

Court Notes.

Order of sale was awarded to sell the real estate of Mary R. Mowery late of Hamilton township.

Elizabeth Waldkirch was discharged as Administratrix of George Walkkirch, late of Latimore township.

Leon Whorley was allowed to draw his share of money out of Court in the Adam Gerrick fund.

John Denges and Viola Denges were allowed to draw their shares out of Court in the estate of Patrick Dougherty, dec'd.

Widow's list under $300 law in estate of Harry E. Rothhaupt, dec'd, was approved unless exceptions are filed within 20 days.

Order of sale was granted for the real estate of Harry E. Rothhaupt, late of Freedom township, dec'd.

The Court filed an opinion staying execution against property of Calvin Pepple, levied upon to satisfy judgment obtained by Charles J. Deardorff against Catharine Pepple, wife of Calvin Pepple, for $200 damages for slander. W. C. Sheely, Esq., attorney for Charles J. Deardorff has taken an appeal to the Superior Court from the decision of the Court.

GEN. MEADE FIRE ENGINE

REPAIRED LAST WEEK AND IS IN FIRST-CLASS CONDITION.

Emergency of Breakage Being Discussed—Shall it be a New Engine, a Chemical or a Stand Pipe.

Gettysburg can rest easy for it has a fire engine as good as a brand new one, for that was the verdict of the expert who was here last Friday.

The Silsby manufacturing plant at Rochester was communicated with immediately after the fire of last week and the nature of the repairs explained with request for one of their expert mechanics to come here and go over the fire engine Gen. Meade.

At the same time Chief Wisotzkey sent a request to York for the loan of a fire engine. This was a very prudent step, as the borough would have been without the protection of a fire engine while our engine was apart and not in working order. The trustees of the Goodwill Fire Company of York gave their consent to their Silsby engine being sent up and it arrived on Thursday. The engine was not unloaded but placed at a point with everything ready for the unloading should there be occasion.

In taking apart Gen. Meade it was found that one cog wheel was badly damaged. One of the cogs broke, giving play to the cog wheel in which it rode and the result was that all the cogs on one wheel for a distance of a third of the wheel were broken off. On the night of the fire the engine had come to a stop and the stop was explained by this cog wheel.

Wm. Langdon of the Silsby plant arrived Thursday evening and started early Friday morning to go over Gen. Meade. New cog wheels instead of the broken ones were placed on the engine and the packing in a number of places was replaced. He gave the engine a thorough examination and declared that it showed little, if any, wear and that it was in first-class condition. Charles H. Wilson helped in the work of repair and in the boiler between forty and fifty flues were found either leaking or about ready to begin to leak. These flues were taken out and new ones inserted.

On Friday evening after the Gen. Meade had been repaired it was given a test in the Square and demonstrated that it was in fine working order. It was made evident that a little packing was needed at one or more points and when the repacking has been done Gen. Meade will be as good as a new engine.

It has been a great satisfaction to the town to be given the assurance that Gen. Meade has shown no wear and is in first-class condition. The accident to Gen. Meade makes the present a most opportune time to consider the matter of additional fire protection. If the break to Gen. Meade had come when the engine got to work on the night of the fire the town might have been at the mercy of the flames.

The question agitating the minds of many of the firemen is ought the town to have further protection as against the event of breaks. The shape that such further protection ought to take is being discussed.

There are those advocating a chemical engine, as they prove very effective in small fires, in the inside fires, at the start of fire and preventing the spread of fires. Another Silsby engine is advocated by others, that we had a number of fires in which two engines could have been used most effectively and that a second engine would always be ready should the first break down.

The opinion prevails that neither a chemical or a new engine would be needed if the water company would erect a stand pipe on their property on East Cemetery Hill. It would give all the pressure needed for strong gravity streams. The water company could rig up an apparatus to pump water from their reservoir into a stand pipe and thus help the town to what would be one of the best fire protection services. The present ought to be the most opportune time for representatives of the fire company and of the water company to get together, discuss the situation and make a progressive proposition that would meet with public approval.

The authorities of the town were very grateful to the York company and authorities for the courtesy of the loan of the Goodwill engine.

MORE SICILIAN DAYS.

SPENT IN CHURCHES WITH BEAUTIFUL MOSAIC WORK.

Catacombs With Horrible Sights Visited Sunday—Noise in a Sicilian City.

I went to Moureale to see the Cathedral and Benedictine Cloisters. Mourcale is on the mountain above Palermo. William the Good wished to build a church to the Virgin but did not know just where Returning from hunting he slept at Moureale. The Virgin came to him in a dream, commanding him to build the church on that spot.

The mosaic work in it is the finest in the world barring the royal church at Capula. The wall space covered is the greatest. We enter at the side through great bronze doors covered with reliefs from old and new testament. There is a nave and two aieles. The pointed arches are supported by eighteen granite columns. Around the nave are scenes from the old testament in two rows of twenty tableaux each.

The first seven are the creation of the world, one for each day. The next seven, creation of Eve, God showing them the Tree, Eve Tempted, The Fall, God calling Adam and Eve holding fig leaves in front of them, the Angel driving them out, they are now in goat skins, Adam digging, Eve sitting in a dejected attitude. Next Cain and Abel bringing sacrifices, Cain killing Abel, God asking for Abel, Cain branded, Cain shunned of all men. Building the Ark, Entering, Sending out the Dove, Leaving the Ark, Sacrificing, Building the Tower of Babel, Confusion of Tongues, Abram offering Isaac, the Angels appearing to Abram, Abram setting meat before the Angels, Joseph's Vision, Jacob's ladder, Jacob wrestling with the Angel, Joseph sold into Egypt. Meeting between Joseph and Benjamin.

I can't remember all but the workmanship is wonderful, all on a background of gold and in the tiniest bits. The mosaics are glass not stone. The soft coloring is beautiful, the light comes from windows high up.

In the aisles are the scenes from the life of Christ. The Annunciation, The Nativity, Joseph's Dream, The Flight into Egypt, Presentation in the Temple, Before the Doctors, Christ's Baptism, Driving out the money changers, the Wedding at Canon, Raising Jairus's daughter, Calling the Fisherman, Sermon on the Mount, In the Garden, The Betrayal, Before Pilot, Scourged, Bearing the Cross, Crucifixion, Descent from Cross, Burial, Resurrection and Ascension.

I have not named all. There is no difficulty in telling what each one is. I was not quite sure of all from the old testament. In the arches are the saints and scenes from their lives. There I was all at sea.

Over the high altar is a large half length Christ. It is the most wonderful thing. It is so clear cut and stands out so distinct it is hard to believe it is a flat surface and the expression and whole attitude are so life like one pauses expecting the lips to part and speak. The farther one stands from it the more real it seems. It dominates the whole church. In an arch over the figure are saints, below the Madonna with the child, on each side the apostles, below that more saints.

Over the royal seat King William builder of the church crowned by Christ to show the Norman Kings that he acknowledged no overlord but Christ. The grandfather Roger first Norman king of Sicily crowned himself and made the archbishop stand one step below him to show the same idea. Over the archepiscapal seat just opposite is William offering a model of the Church to the Virgin.

In the right transept is a very large St. Peter, around scenes from his life. In the left St. Paul and scenes from his life. Of course there are angels galore. Over the arch to the choir is Divine Wisdom with the archangels Michael and Gabriel bowing down before. Below the tableaux the whole way round is a mosaic frieze, then white marble panels with mosaic edges making it looking like white hangings with embroidered edges.

The ground word of all the mosaic work is gold. The altars marble mosaic, also the pavements. The altars are most beautiful. All the inscriptions are Greek. The figures are in Byzantine costumes.

From the left apse one enters the Chapel of the Crucifix, altar and all carved wood. Scenes from the life of Christ, beautiful workmanship and black with age. From the right into the Chapel of St. Benedict, of Sicilian marble, eighteen century baroque style, very ugly after the other artistic workmanship. Another Chapel in which services were going on is modern and ugly. The roof is modern, the original was destroyed by fire. The ceiling was arched sharp, painted to go with the original colors and mosaics, of course it is not as soft in tone. It is not a smooth arch, many pointed as the original.

In one corner the stairs begins, narrow, dark, steep and winding, you come out on the roof, walk along the edge to a little narrow, low doorway, there through an arched passageway, very narrow and low, very little light, you come out on a little corner, poor place for any one who gets dizzy from height. The view over the country was grand. On up another flight of steps so narrow my sleeves brushed on both sides, brings you to the bells on a narrow ledge, fortunately enclosed by iron rails. From there the view was magnificent. Think of the poor old Monks climbing those 172 steps along the ledges, etc., to ring the bells. Many of the bells are still rung in the old way, that is take the clapper in the hand and strike with it.

From the church I went to the Cloisters. Nothing can convey the beauty of these columns with their magnificent curved capitols. Two hundred and twenty in pairs, four at each corner. Some are plain, Corinthian, others elaborately carved, others again inlaid with mosaics in various patterns. There is very little of the original mosaic left owing to the vandalism of the Spaniards. A few columns have been restored to show how they looked. The arches are Arabic. The stucco is nearly all gone, here and there a little showing it had been frescoed, pavement marble mosaic. But the capitals. Ah! they are wonderful. Old and New Testament scenes in relief, Saints, Angels, Martyrs, Popes, Monks, Priests, were introducing the Archbishop to the Virgin, nothing bashful about the Norman Kings. Of course I can't remember the whole 108 capitals, and there are at least four scenes on each one. One needs days instead of hours to study that Church and the Cloisters.

Next day's trip was first to the Monastery de Cappuccini. In galleries under the building called the Catacombs, are the dead of years. Up until a few years ago the dead of Palermo were embalmed and put in that place. Of all the horrible, disgusting sights, most of them are nothing but skeletons with shreds of dried skin on them, the hair seems to stick the longest. The rich are in coffins, which are only boxes, with wire netting at one end, so the face can be seen. The poor are stuck up against the walls. There are piles and piles of boxes and rows and rows against the walls of grinning skeletons with a few rags on. The men are all together in one gallery, the women in another, the spinsters all have tin crowns on, the Monks in another, the Priests, Cardinals, Bishops, etc., in another. There is a frieze of Priests around the wall in their vestments rotten with age. One old fellow of 1698 has the tongue still in his mouth. Garibaldi's most intimate friend died in 1863: he has long hair, a beard and a forest on his chest. It is awful to think of going to look at your friends in that condition.

From there I went to San Giovanni de Gliieremite, ruins of Chapel and Cloisters, founded by Roger in 1148. It is supposed parts of an old mosque were retained in the building as there are five round cupolas. The custodian is a character and explains everything in pantomine. He takes one at one place puts his head to sleep on his hand, wakes up, feeds himself chewing as if he was starved, that means where the Monks slept and ate. Then he draws a long face, scalps himself, crosses his arms and goes slowly with downcast eyes across the Courtyard, at the door dips his fingers in Holy water, enters and ducks before the altar, meaning Monks going to prayers. He goes out again, then says "Saraceni," assumes an independent manner, has a turban on and flowing robes, takes off slippers and robes, washes his face and marches in, turning toward the East says "Mecca," sticks his thumbs in his ears, wiggles his fingers and bows toward the East a number of times, meaning Mohammedans at prayer. Back to the Cloisters again and pointing up to the bell tower he says "Cicilian Vespers," rings furiously, gets horribly excited, lots of people rushing towards him, kills and is killed, cuts his throat and gurgles, steps over bodies, slashing and thrusting in every direction, crying Monk in French, then spreads out his hands and informs one they are all dead.

In 1282, I think, when Sicily was under the French, the people were horribly oppressed. The best families were killed, imprisoned and their lands taken on the slightest pretext. On Easter Tuesday while walking on the Esplanade with her fiance, a beautiful young girl was insulted by a French soldier. The man resented the insult. The soldier then put his hand in the girl's dress with the excuse that she had a dagger hidden. The young man killed the soldier and waving his dagger shouted "Let us kill the Freuch!" The people took up the cry, some rushing off to this church and ringing the bell to rouse the city gave the name Sicilian Vespers to the massacre. Not a French man, woman or child was left alive in the whole island.

I then crossed to the cathedral. What a shame the original Norman Sicilian design is spoiled by modern decorations. The Aren Episcopal Palace on which is a large Norman tower is badly spoiled by restorations. The Chapel of St. Rosalia is all marble and beautiful. I also visited the small church with three round domes showing the mosque. The walls were at one time covered with mosaics and thanks again to the Spaniards they are all gone.

I have seen so many churches I don't want to see another one for a while. I went to the Museum, there are a few masterpieces, some very fine wood carving, some good statuary and some exquisite embroidery, vestment of the clergy, solid embroidery, very fine and beautifully done.

No wonder Italy is poor, more than half the men are priests and the other half are nearly all in uniform, the bunch living off a few poor wretches.

Sunday here is ear-splitting, the church bells hammering all day, the streets are crowded with venders of all kinds, each trying to out do the other in screaming their wares, the cab drivers cracking their whips, yelling at their nags or at people to take their carriages. The stores are all open. The market is like an ant hill, all bargaining is carried on at the top of the voice with many gesticulations, beating of breasts and tearing of hair. I have concluded every part of the animal is eaten, little carts are drawn through the streets with every part of the pig or kid displayed for sale. As the place is fearfully dusty and dirty the chief diet here is dirt. The doorways and walls, even across the narrow streets are hung with yards and yards of macaroni to dry, catching all manner of germs.

I would not walk through the narrow streets after dark for a good deal. Every step must be seen to if one does not wish to step into what should be deposited in a hole and covered up. Of course it is the same in all Italian cities. I go into the holes for the old architecture. One sees traces of beautiful Saracenic and Norman architecture as well as Roman and Spanish in the rottenest corners. The new part of the town is very uninteresting. The street are beautiful and wide, the buildings large and airy, but I am not here to look at modern things.

I have seen all the main sights of Palermo and told you of them. I just feel now I can't describe any more churches. They are much alike, taking out the true mosaic ones. Since visiting them I have been walking through the Saracen quarter looking at the architecture. The swarms of beggars and cab drivers no longer amuse me. I want to swear at them.

Have just been to the botanical gardens. Went with my mind made up to have a papyrus plume. I got it by a little contriving and will bring it if I can keep it in good order. The large leaf is from the coffee tree, next size from the cinnamon tree and a pointed one from the pepper vine.

Lovingly,
MARY KATHERINE.

THE LIMIT OF PATIENCE.

Owner of One Telephone in Flat Building Protests.

"Of course," said the cheerful woman, "I believe in loving my neighbor as myself, but I find it harder since we have had a telephone put in our flat. We live in an old-fashioned flat house and ours is the only telephone on the premises. I do not know how the neighbors learned that we have one, for I am not acquainted with anybody in the building, but it was not in more than a week when the woman across the hall came over to ask if she could use it. 'Of course I'll pay,' she said, and naturally I had no choice but to let her use it. She paid five cents, but under the rules of the telephone company private wires cost more than that per message. However, I did not wish to be small, so I let it pass. She evidently carried the good news throughout the building, for there has been a continuous performance ever since. A few days ago somebody rang me up and asked for Mrs. Blank, who lives on the top floor. I was the only person at home at the time, so I had to climb three flights of stairs and tell Mrs. Blank to come down. What's that? Virtue its own— Oh, yes, I know; but whose virtue?"

PLACATED MR. DAN SAMSON.

Colored Minister's "Retraction" a Triumph of Ingenuity.

In Mississippi there was a colored preacher noted in those parts for the extreme frankness and candor of his exhortations to his wicked brethren to reform. On one occasion, relates Representative John Sharp Williams, the divine was holding forth on the sin of theft. Among other things he said: "I see befo' me ten chicken thieves, includin' Dan Samson." This bald statement of fact rather aroused the resentment of the aforesaid Samson, and he threatened the minister with personal violence. The latter's friends persuaded the divine to withdraw the accusation if Samson would promise not to offer the minister any hurt. The question seemed about to be adjusted, it being settled that the clergyman should, on the following Sunday, publicly retract his statement as to the honesty of Mr. Samson. Therefore, rising in the pulpit on the day appointed, the minister said: "It 'pears dat a remark of mine, in de sermon of last Sunday, has been de cause of offense, an' I derefore amends it. What I should have said was dis: 'I see befo' me ten chicken thieves, not includin' Dan Samson.'"—Harper's Weekly.

The Congregation.

There is a tiny church near the foot of one of the Western Grampians which has a congregation numbering, in the best of weather, not more than 20 people. On stormy days the number is much less, as members have to travel considerable distances. A tourist happened to come across this church early one Sunday afternoon. He listened for a bit, but heard no sound, so went to the door of the church and looked in. The beadle was the only occupant. "Is the service over?" he asked. "Ou ay, she will pe over," replied the old man. "Then, where is the congregation?" asked the tourist. The beadle slowly pointed through the open door to a man wending his way down a hill and said, "That's him."

Cut-Rate Contributors.

In a certain parish of Greater New York the rector, while admonishing his flock on Sunday last that the collection basket receipts were steadily growing less, took occasion to declare that "certain parishioners contribute to their means, but others give in keeping with their meanness." He added that in measure such exhibitions of false pretense reminded him of the story told of the Pilgrim fathers upon their arrival at Plymouth Rock: "First they fell upon their knees; then they fell upon the aborigines."

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person; But Doan's Cured Him.

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

A. C. SPRAGUE.

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Sprague will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

NOTICE.

THE first and final account of Albert S. Wright, Assignee of Wm. Webb of Bendersville borough, Adams county, Pa., has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas of Adams county, Pa., and will be confirmed by the said Court on the 26th day of August, A. C. F. DEATRICK,

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines, and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

Catarrh

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety cream like Petrolatum, imported by Dr Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc surely call for Dr Shoop's Restorative.

For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

CAPTAIN KNEW HIS BUSINESS.

Story of the Bark That Broke Record Around the Horn.

"A story of heroism of the sea, rivaling that of Gilliat in 'The Toilers of the Sea,' has just been enacted in the Pacific ocean," said John P. Barnes, a San Francisco merchant to a Washington Post writer. "It is the story of an intrepid sea captain who resurrected a sunken ship that had been given up for lost and put her in such good condition that she has broken all records for sailing craft around the horn

"The sea captain lived at San Diego until a year or two ago, having retired on a modest income. His name is Thayer. One day he read in the papers of an auction sale of the hulk of a ship in the South seas. He went to San Francisco, where he found that the ship had been valued at $250,000 and had been grounded in a storm, deserted by the crew and supposedly pounded into a shapeless mass upon the rocks. But he thought he would take a chance, and so bid her in for $1,100, getting a lawyer in Oakland to take a half interest.

"Getting together a wrecking crew, he traveled 7,000 miles to the island of Manga Riva, where, through heroic efforts and after many months, he got the ship to the level and towed her back across smooth summer seas to San Francisco. There the vessel was rebuilt into a three-masted bark. Captain Thayer came on to Washington and got the government to register the British ship Pyrenees, for that was its original name, as the bark Manga Riva. Then, after the refitting had been completed, he sent her to Swansea, Wales. The bark made the fastest time ever attained by any sailing vessel between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. Captain Thayer is now enjoying the income from his daring and his name is being paraded up and down the Pacific coast among marine folk as the modern Gilliat."

What a Frown Can Do.

A single bitter word may disquiet an entire family for a whole day. One surly glance casts gloom over the household while a smile like a gleam of sunshine, may light up the darkest and weariest hours.

Like unexpected flowers which spring up along the path, full of freshness and fragrance and beauty, do kind words and gentle acts and sweet dispositions make glad the home where peace and blessing dwell.

No matter how humble the abode, if it be sweetened with kindness and smiles, the heart will turn lovingly toward it from all the tumult of the world, and it will be the dearest spot beneath the sun, says an exchange.

And the influences of home perpetuate themselves. The gentle grace of the mother lives in the daughter, and the fatherly kindness finds echo in the nobility and courtesy of sons; while, on the other hand, from an unhappy, misgoverned, and disordered home go forth persons who will make other homes miserable, and perpetuate the sourness and sadness, the contentions and strifes and railings which have made their own lives so wretched and distorted.

Toward the cheerful home the children gather as clouds and as doves to their windows, while from the home which is the abode of discontent and strife and trouble they fly forth.

Song Birds' Ocean Trips Cost Money.

Mme Sembrich, who sailed for Europe the other day, occupied a suite on board the steamer for which the sum of $1,100 was paid. Caruso's quarters came a little lower—$900 being the sum expended in getting him back to his dear Italy for the summer. There may be those who sympathize with the impresarios who agree when they engage artists to pay their expenses both ways. This sympathy with Herr Conried and Director Hammerstein we consider misplaced, however. After all, they calculate in advance the cost of a singer, and it matters little whether they pay the money over direct or hold out a part of it for the steamship lines.

The expense really falls upon the public—the people who pay anywhere from $5 to $100 each for the privilege of hearing the Sembrichs and the Carusos sing.

And so long as the public is satisfied no kind of criticism is likely to change present conditions.

Salaries in England.

New York is generous to her judges, and $17,500 is a splendid salary. If a man will not remain on the bench for that sum he is not likely to remain for $25,000. In England the lord high chancellor gets $50,000 a year; the attorney general $35,000 and fees, which amount to about $30,000 more, making $65,000 in all; the solicitor general $30,000 and fees, or $50,000 all told; justices of the court of appeals, $25,000; justices of the high court of justice, $25,000; lord chief justice of England, $4,000; judge of the city court of London ("common sergeant") $10,050; judge of the Bow street police court, $9,000; judge of the probate and divorce court, $25,000, etc.

Good Ballast for Balloons.

It is now possible for a balloon to throw out more ballast than it carried up from the surface of the earth. In a baloon ascent made from Berlin by Capt. Von Krog, the pilot of the Parseval balloon, there was carried a quantity of chemicals which have the property of absorbing moisture and thus increasing their weight in a damp atmosphere. The experiment was successful.

STAGE SEAS.

Scene Shifter Destroys the Illusion of the Actor's Dilemma.

Mr. Alfred Lester, the popular Gaiety comedian, has told a funny stage sea story, which leads me to a remembrance of others. Mr. Lester, like most comedians, started his stage career as a player of heroes, villains, "heavy fathers" and other familiar figures of melodrama, and one night, at a dirty little theater in a third-rate Welsh town, or village, while expiring of thirst on a raft, the actor felt, to his annoyance, that the scene, intended to be most pathetic, was provoking explosions of unsuccessfully suppressed laughter. The more he raved of the thirst that was consuming him, the more the people in front were consumed with laughter. Mr. Lester thought them the hardest-hearted wretches he had ever played before—until he knew what had been the cause of their merriment. It appeared from information received from the manager, that a scene-shifter, instead of lowering a back cloth of perilous rock, had introduced into the scene of turbulent waters the peaceful picture of a country inn, with fields of poppies in the distance. The spectacle of a thirsty mariner calling huskily for "watah" while there were "licensed premises" almost at his elbow in the raging ocean naturally struck the audience as having its humorous aspect.

Power of Imagination.

"Imagination has a great deal to do with some cases of sickness," said a doctor in St. Joseph's hospital, quoted in the Philadelphia Record. "There was a woman who used to come here regularly complaining that she had swallowed a pin and that it was stuck in her throat, hurting her dreadfully. Week after week we assured her that we could find no pin, but still she came. At last we determined to satisfy her, so we told her to open her mouth wide and shut her eyes. Then we placed a pin between a pair of long forceps and ran it down her throat. After fooling around a while we drew it out and declared that we had at last succeeded in extracting the troublesome pin. She got up, declared that she felt better and went away. I saw her later, and she declared that the pain in her throat had entirely disappeared."

Fire Damp Detector.

The fire damp detector of M. Hardy, a Frenchman, is an ingenious application of the microphone. Two pipes of equal pitch—one in the mine and the other above ground—are sounded simultaneously, and the sound waves impinge the microphones connected in series with a telephone. If both pipes are in pure air a clear note is heard in the telephone. If the pipes are in air of different density beats are heard and these give warning of the presence of fire damp in the mine.

Comfortless Furnishing.

Rooms are furnished nowadays with a view to effect rather than to comfort. Furniture is charming, never has better taste been displayed, generally speaking, in furnishing, and yet it is rare, when one comes to think of it, that one goes into a really comfortable room where the average woman looks thoroughly at home and one [illegible] at once rested in mind and body. 332 NEW LAWS IN THE STATE

HAVE BEEN SIGNED BY GOVERNOR STUART.

The Bound Pamphlet Laws for 1907 Will Soon be Out—Acts Important to Adams Co. Citizens.

Governor Stuart has approved of three hundred and thirty-two of the bills passed by the last Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania, and they have become laws of the State except in those cases where a specific date is fixed for the law to become operative. The last of the advance sheets of the laws passed has been received but the completed pamphlet bound is not yet out. Among the laws specially applicable to the citizens of this county are the following, continuing from last week:

An act to require steam and electric railways to report to Sec. of Internal Affairs number of miles operated.

An act requiring all newspapers to print the names of owner, proprietor and managing editor in every copy of each issue.

An act to permit children residing one and one half miles or more by public road, from the nearest school in the district where they reside, to attend any other convenient school in any other district without the consent of the school directors in either district and making the district where they reside liable to the district where they attend for the cost of tuition.

An act regulating and defining the powers and duties of the State Board of Dental Examiners, providing for examinations, and issuing of licenses and prohibiting practice by unlicensed persons.

An act requiring County auditors to publish their annual reports of the accounts of the county officers, and providing payment of publication by county.

An act requiring the Poor Directors to provide proper medical treatment to all persons who may apply for aid who may be bitten by dogs or other animals suffering from hydrophobia, and the treatment may include the Pasteur treatment.

An act providing condemnation proceedings for turnpikes, roads or highways.

An act making false statements, reports and entries in book in any bank, trust company or building and loan association a misdemeanor.

An act prohibiting the placing of packages of medicines or candies in houses, at door, porches, etc., and providing a punishment for violation of same.

An act to authorize borough authorities to expend one half of the annual appropriation for roads and streets.

An act to remove disability of a wife to testify in a civil case brought by husband when her character or conduct is attacked.

An act to provide for the inspection of buildings in boroughs to secure structural and sanitary safety of buildings.

An act to protect song and insectiverous birds and providing a penalty for having any wild bird in possession, living or dead.

An act appropriating $600,000 for the establishing and maintenance, of one or more sanatorio or colonies for the free care and treatment of indigent persons suffering from tuberculosis.

An act giving boroughs the power to prevent the erection of wooden buildings in boroughs.

An act to prevent and punish the desecration of the flag of the United States. No word, figure, mark, or picture, design, drawing or any advertisement can be placed upon the flag.

An act regulating the compensation of Sheriffs for boarding prisoners at rate fixed by the county commissioners and not to exceed 50 cents per day for each prisoner.

An act to authorize the employment of male prisoners of the jail upon the public highways of the counties.

An act regulating the sale of feed stuff.

PAMPHLET LAWS FOR 1907.

The Pamphlet Laws for 1907 have been printed and bound and the first installment of the finished volume was ready for distribution this week. This is a record breaker for such important work, and the credit for this rapid work, thoroughly well done largely belongs to a citizen of Gettysburg, Chief Clerk George D. Thorn, of the State Department. The new volume contains 855 pages the largest since 1901, and the work has been arranged, indexed and printed for distribution in about a month, surpassing the record for such a large volume.

The COMPILER has been publishing from advance sheets, a summary of the laws specially applicable to the citizens of this county. On the third page will be found a column of such acts, and it is hoped to complete this summary next week.

HORSE BITTEN BY COPPERHEAD

Buchanan Valley, July 29, As Raymond Cole was driving the team in the binder, cutting grain in the meadow, one of the horses gave a sudden jump. He did not notice what caused him to jump, but soon the horse became lame and he was obliged to take him to the stable, thinking perhaps a snake had bitten him. Upon looking in the meadow he found the snake (a copperhead) had been tramped upon and killed. The horse suffered greatly for about a day, and the foot just above the hoof was greatly swollen.

Edgar Kimple, little son of Francis and Mary Kimple, was taken to Chambersburg Hospital on Sunday July 21, and was operated upon immediately upon reaching the hospital for appendicitis. He took sick suddenly on Wednesday, and Dr. Wolff was called in and pronounced his disease appendicitis. He is doing well at present.

Mrs. Harry Hall of Waynesboro and Mrs. Mae Patterson of Johnstown, Pa. are visiting Mrs. Elizabeth Hall.

John Ross of York, is visiting at Samuel Keisers for a week.

Mrs. Mary McCloskey is at her daughter's Mrs. John Brady. Mrs. James Boyle and daughter Mary, Miss Boyle, Mrs. Helen Gaelback, and baby John Gaelback are also there from Philadelphia for a month.

Mrs. Albert Cole and Eliza both spent Monday afternoon in Chambersburg.

Miss Edith Mickley spent Saturday and Sunday with John Menson and family.

Miss Sue O'Brien of Hilltown is in the valley, at Frank Kimple's.

Francis Boyle left for Phila., on Saturday. He spent a couple of months in the valley for his health. He left quite well and strong.

Miss Sallie Kimple has returned from Chambersburg and Harrisburg where she had been visiting.

Miss Jennie Kimple is at home at present from Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Brinkerhoff Jr. and sons H. S. and George spent a day in the valley with your correspondent.

H. S. Brinkerhoff is a lynotype operator on the Washington Times, and had not visited in valley for fifteen years.

Mrs. Rebecca Kuhn and Miss Mary Cole spent a few days in Cashtown last week.

Miss Mary Irvin is visiting in Fayetteville. S. C. S.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Centennial, July 28.—The extreme wet weather prevented the housing of grain in this section. At this time the grass crop is not entirely cut.

The corn in this vicinity looks fine. Some just beginning to shoot the tassel.

The grass is very tall, having been shown some timothy stalks measuring 5 feet, 1 inch, 5 feet 3 inches, 5 feet 4 inches and with heads measuring over 8 inches long.

The crop prospects are very fine, the only damage so far being from heavy rain storms. M. T. J.

TEN INNINGS TO WIN.

Fairfield, July 29.—The assertion we made in last weeks issue of the COMPILER that the Arendtsville base ball team is not in the same class with Fairfield was strengthened by the fact that they again went down to defeat at the hands of the local team on Saturday afternoon July 27. However the visitors made it quite interesting for our boys inasmuch as it required ten innings to win. The score was a good one, 5 to 4. By the showing Slab Artist Funt of the visiting team made, we are convinced there is nothing wrong with his ribs since our boys all agree his work in Saturday's game was the most puzzling they have been up against this season.

Our team has two games scheduled for this week. The first one will be played on the local grounds Tuesday afternoon against Taneytown and the second on Saturday August 3 with the Monterey Country Club at Monterey.

The festival held here on Saturday evening last for the benefit of the ball team was well patronized. G. M. N.

9 BAHTIZED IN CONOWAGO.

Vinegar Branch and Stone Jug, July 29.—An impressive scene took place on the banks of great Conowago at the two bridges on Saturday afternoon last when the Rev. Burkholder of the U. B. Church baptized 9 young persons.

The minister addressed them in beautiful language speaking of the different modes of baptism condemning none and would administer the solemn rite in any manner they might desire. After which were baptised by immersion - by kneeling in the water and having water poured on their heads and 4 by sprinkling.

Communion services were held in Heidlersburg, U. B. church on Sunday by the same pastor and was largely attended.

Summer Business ...News...

Advertising is nothing more no less than business news, and very interesting news it should be, for it is more important to men and women to make the money go as far as possible by knowing where they can buy the goods they want and not pay too much for them, than it is to read society gossip.

We want to give you accurate news about our goods and that is what you will get if you read our advertisements. "When the Harvest Days are Over" is the time to look for the bargains here.

INTERNAL PARASITES.

Cooper's New Discovery has taught me many things. Not least of which is that parasites or tape worms as they are called are responsible for an immense amount of suffering. Thousands of these creatures have been brought to me by people who have taken the New Discovery and I now know that an immense amount of supposed stomach trouble is caused in reality by one of these parasites. A man or woman may be afflicted in this manner for years and not realize the true cause of their suffering. When I first sold Cooper's New Discovery I did not know that the medicine would remove this trouble. I have since found that it invariably does so. The following letter is a fair sample of the symptoms as experienced by an individual thus affected:

NICK EMMERICK.

"I was always tired. My stomach bloated and the slightest exertion made me sick, weak and dizzy. My appetite was variable and a good nights sleep was unknown to me. When I awoke in the mornings I had a bad taste in my mouth and a coated tongue. I heard of the wonderful benefits that were being derived from Cooper's New Discovery, and decided to try it."

"The horrible tape worm, sixty feet long that had been sapping my life away, passed from my system alive and squirming after I had taken three doses. Now I have a splendid appetite, every trace of stomach trouble has disappeared and my digestion is good. I sleep well and am gaining in strength every day." Nick Emmerick, 1344 Louis Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

NOTICE OF AMENDED ORDINANCE. WIDENING AND CHANGING PAVEMENTS.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance introduced by the Ordinance Committee in the Town Council of the Borough of Gettysburg, on Tuesday, July 2nd, 1907, will be considered for final adoption and enactment on Tuesday, August 6th, 1907, at 7.30 o'clock, p. m. in the Council Chamber, when and where all persons having objections thereto may appear:—

AN ORDINANCE

TO AMEND SECTION FIVE OF AN ORDINANCE ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE GRADING, GUTTERING, CURBING AND REPAIRING OF SIDE OR FOOT-WALKS," APPROVED THE FOURTH DAY OF AUG., A. D., 1905.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Burgess and Town Council of the Borough of Gettysburg, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, that section five of an ordinance entitled "An ordinance regulating the grading, guttering, curbing and repairing of side or foot-walks," approved the Fourth day of August, A. D. 1905 which reads as follows:

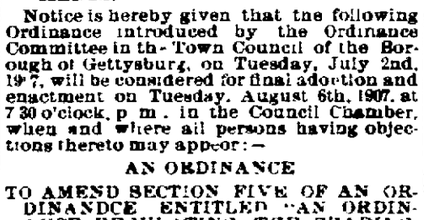

"Section 5 The width of the pavements, side or foot-walks from the building line to the curb line on each side of all streets shall be according to the width of the street and as follows: On streets eighty feet in width, twelve feet: on streets sixty-six feet in width eleven feet and on streets fifty feet in width, nine feet. Provided that in front of unimproved lots and on such lots where the building sets back so that no porch, steps or other portion of the building projects beyond the building line, the pavement may be six feet in width and laid next to the curb. And provided further that in the built-up portions of the Borough, the Council may require the pavements in front of such lots to be laid the full width," shall be amended to read as follows:

Section 5. The width of the pavements, side or foot-walks from the building line to the curb line on each side of all streets shall be according to the width of the street and as follows: On streets eighty feet in width, sixteen feet, six feet of pavement shall be laid in the middle of the said sixteen feet and the five feet on each side of the six feet of laid pavement shall be kept in grass: on streets sixty-six feet in width, eleven feet, and on streets fifty feet in width, nine feet. Provided, that in front of unimproved lots and on such lots where the building sets back so that no porch, steps or other portion of the building projects beyond the building line, the pavement may be six feet in width and laid next to the curb, except on streets eighty feet in width where the pavement shall be laid as provided above. And provided further that in the built up portion of the borough, the Council may require the pavements in front of such lots to be laid the full width.

DRY GOODS--NOTIONS--CARPETS

The successful Clearance Sale which closes, as per advertisement, this evening will be continued as an

ODDS AND ENDS SALE

This will include the "left overs" of the Clearance Sale and the aftermath or "second mowing" of the entire store. Every day will bring something at a bargain price. It is good storekeeping we know to lose money sometimes in order to get the shelves cleared for new goods. This has been our policy for years. This season, our stock being much larger than usual, we find it necessary to make this August Sale larger than heretofore and more comprehensive in its price reductions.

GUARANTEED REMEDY FOR INDIGESTION.

Interesting Statement by The People's Drug Store.

When a man comes into this store and calls for any particular indigestion remedy, we always give him what he asks for, but in case he leaves it to us we usually recommend Pepsikola tablets.

Here is a preparation we have been selling right over the counter for years, and from actual observation we know it must do good, and really does cure indigestion and dyspepsia or there would be a steady stream of people coming back for their money, as every 25 cent box is sold with the under standing that you must be decidedly benefited or there is nothing to pay.

You simply try Pepsikola tablets with the understanding that they will steady your nerves, improve your appetite, relieve wind belching coated tongue, sour stomach, fullness after eating, weakened energy, and other symptoms of indigestion or The People's Drug Store is ready at any time to pay back your money without the least argument.

DOG KNOWS GOOD TOBACCO.

Foxy Man Lets His Fox Terrier Select His Cigars.

"A stranger entered my place recently followed by a fox terrier," said a Columbus avenue cigar dealer. "The man asked me for a good cigar. I passed out a box of choice ones. He took out a handful, looked them over and put them back. He did this with a number of boxes. I noticed that each time he took out the cigars the dog would sneeze, whereupon the stranger would immediately discard the brand. Finally, I remembered a new and expensive brand. When the customer took a handful of these the dog began to bark delightedly.

"'I will take a box of those,' said the stranger

"As I was wrapping up the goods curiosity got the better of me, and I asked an explanation of the dog's actions."

"'I reared that dog in Havana' he replied. 'Every time he catches the odor of good tobacco it seems to please him and I know that he has scented genuine goods It is seldom that I get left when I let him choose my cigars'"—N Y Sun

Wide Range of Wolves.

The range of a pair of wolves is an area of from six to ten miles square. When the hunter learns that wolves have been seen and heard in a certain locality it may take several days of scouting before the dogs can be got on the trail.

The hunter must look sharp for signs in soft or sandy places and along creeks and streams. The old lady wolf will, as a rule, go to the nearest water to drink when leaving the den, or go to get a drink as she returns from the hunt before going to the den, and its locality is often found on account of that habit.

A wolf track can be distinguished from that of a dog, because the two front toenails are set further ahead, making the track more pointed. When wolves are running, and especially if frightened, these toes spread apart, making a track that at a hasty glance looks very much like the track of a deer.—Fur News.

Over Thirty-Five Years.

In 1872 there was a great deal of diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum. It was at this time that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was first brought into use It proved more successful than any other remedy or treatment, and has for thirty-five years maintained that record. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to every part of the United States and to many foreign countries. Nine druggists out of ten will recommend it when their opinion is asked, although they have other medicines that pay them a greater profit. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by The People's Drug Store.

I will mail you free, to prove merit samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart, or The Kidneys. Troubles of the stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—means Stomach Weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, billiousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me to-day for sample and free Book. THE PART WILLIAM PLAYED

By MELLA OVERTON RUSSELL.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Elizabeth Deerfield sat very straight and stared out of the window.

The train stopped; she heard the porter's voice:

"Right heah—numbah three."

"All right!" The response was unmistakably masculine.

Leisurely, the new passenger arranged his belongings. He was very tall—that much Elizabeth could tell, without looking from her magazine. With a sigh of relief, she heard the rustle of a paper, her companion sank comfortably into his seat, and applied himself to the news.

Elizabeth was eighteen. She gave two distinct impressions—that she was from tip to toe a perfect lady; and that she was most particular about her conduct in public. Incidentally, she was little, with black hair, clear blue eyes and extreme pallor, which was accentuated by a dark blue gown, cut almost too severely for so small a person.

All this John Demorest had noticed in one brief glance. Behind his newspaper he smiled a little grimly.

"What an ogre she thinks me for daring to occupy her section," he thought. "I know by the stiff way she holds her back, she's a nice little thing. Here we have a whole evening together, and no chance to shorten it by a little harmless talking. That's the nice girl over and over—introductions, formality, rot!"

An hour of steady reading ensued. Demorest was the sort that can be comfortable anywhere—loosely built, with easy, unconscious movements. But Elizabeth grew very tired; her eyes ached; her head began to threaten; she was glad when dinner was announced.

John Demorest's keen eyes followed her quick movements. He looked at her trim little back as she hurried down the car. Putting down his paper, he studied the little blue hat and coat which lay on the seat opposite. They were so instinctively proper, so truly eastern. For some reason there was a big hungriness in his heart.

He was a civil engineer, en route to New York, his home. His diligence in western bridge construction had won him a flattering offer in the main office of the railroad which he served. He was not a man who could be unhappy anywhere, but, as he looked back at the four years just ended, so different from what his life before had been, he felt a great relief in his heart and realized that he had been lonely for the bustle and roar of the city; for the old indescribable east; for people like the girl in blue.

At the next stop the porter led a small boy to the section opposite. He was evidently traveling alone, and the very self-reliant air of the youngster was noticeable.

"Suah youh not afraid to sit heah all alone?" inquired the porter, kindly.

"Oh, no, thank you," answered the boy.

He sat on the extreme edge of the seat and looked about.

"Here, at least, is an eastern product, which I dare address," said John Demorest, to himself. I won't yet, though," he added. "I'll see if Miss Primness can find it proper to look at a baby whom she has never met."

When Elizabeth came back, she did look at the child: he was so tiny, and all alone! She smiled. When she smiled the little look of reserve ran away, and she was altogether charming. The boy smiled back, and slid farther into the big seat, as if satisfied that there was a friend on the train, in case of need.

Soon the child slid down, crossed the aisle, and addressed Elizabeth:

"May I sit with you awhile?"

"Yes, indeed!" cried the girl.

"What is your name, dear?"

"William Morrison Davis, and mother says I may talk to kind looking people on a train."

A slight flush came to Elizabeth's face. Demorest hurriedly picked up his paper.

"Are you going to New York?" continued the boy.

"Yes."

"Do you live in New York?"

"Yes."

"Mother says that sometimes I am rude in my questions, but I don't mean to be."

The baby gravity was too much for Elizabeth. She took possession of the little hand, and asked: "Where do you live?"

"Oh, I live in New York too."

"You are—let me see—six years old, aren't you?"

"How did you know? Can you tell people's ages? Tell me how old the nice man, across from us, is."

Elizabeth colored again. Perhaps William Morrison Davis' mother was right. She hastened to inform him that she could only tell little boys' ages.

"Do you know that man?"

"No."

"No."

"Why, don't you talk to him? I'm sure he is nice, by the way his eyes look. Let's talk to him."

"I am not a little boy, dear."

John Demorest knew he should laugh if something didn't happen soon. So he looked at William.

"Oh, you are nice, aren't you" cried the child, delightedly.

"I hope so," said John, seriously.

"Then we can all have a jolly time! Don't you both love a jolly time?" The boy was in raptures now.

For a second Elizabeth hesitated, then she looked straight into Demorest's eyes, and laughed.

Suddenly the train stopped; shouts were heard outside; John hurried to the door and found that a wreck ahead would delay them all night—possibly longer. It meant that instead of reaching New York in the early morning they would not arrive until the next afternoon. He tried not to smile at the thought.

"How very annoying," said Elizabeth, when she heard what had happened. "I can telegraph, I suppose?"

"Yes, I'll get some blanks at once."

After they had written their respective messages they remembered William, with dismay.

"Sonny, do you understand? We won't get to New York until to-morrow night. Can you tell me where you live?" John's tone was very anxious.

"Oh, yes, just address Mr. Arthur T. Davis, 1711 West Eighty-fourth street," said William, calmly, "and tell him that I'm with some very nice people."

William Morrison Davis proved to be mightily entertaining, with his unusual command of English. Elizabeth's reserve did not return. She laughed and talked, and although most of her conversation was addressed to the precocious lad, "the tall man with the nice face" felt that he was no longer under the ban.

Finally William grew sleepy and allowed his head to drop against Elizabeth's arm; she looked down at the yellow curls and something gripped at her heart; he was so quiet now, so much more of a baby!

"Perhaps I'd better see the porter about getting the little chap to bed?" half queried Demorest, although he was loth to spoil the pretty picture.

Before the sleeping William was given over to the porter Elizabeth stooped and kissed the baby forehead. "Now, porter," she said, "be sure and tell me if this child wants anything."

William was safely installed in lower 4; one by one the passengers retired. When Elizabeth fell asleep it was with an unusual tingle in her blood.

Next morning Elizabeth was awakened by William's grave little voice. Peering out the window, she saw him walking along the track with the "nice" man, talking excitedly. "That is good of him," she murmured, as she hastily dressed.

When the pair returned she was ready for them. "We waited to have breakfast with you," explained William.

"The officials say we can't start for two hours," said Demorest. "The debris ahead is not all cleared away. That will bring us in about four o'clock."

"That won't be bad," replied Elizabeth, rather ambiguously.

"William and I have a scheme for your approval," continued the man. "How would you like to taboo the Pullman and have breakfast at a little place we have found near here?"

"Oh, it will be fine." Elizabeth could be real girlish, when she was not too proper.

William ran ahead, as they walked gaily to the little inn.

"Will you tell me your name?" asked Demorest.

"Deerfield—Elizabeth Deerfield. And yours?"

"John Demorest. I hope you don't think me rude—"

"Not at all. Isn't William a remarkable child?"

"Indeed he is!" replied Demorest with vigor. He was thinking that he owed a great deal to William.

They seated themselves at one of the little snow-white tables. William was very low in a grown-up chair, and the waiter noticed it.

"Would yo like a high chair for your little boy?" he asked.

It was truly a psychological moment. "Yes, please," answered John, boldly. Sorry as he was for her embarrassment, he couldn't help being glad that she blushed.

The breakfast was delightful, and the day—well, everyone knows that there is no place like a train for getting really acquainted. Elizabeth felt the fresh, western breeziness of her new friend: he was so big, and strong, and different from the men who had lived in the east all their lives. She began to wish—what did she wish, anyway? She couldn't have told, but it was there all the same.

Soon they found themselves rolling into New York. William was piloted out and safely restored to his father's arms. Then Demorest turned to the girl; he could see that her friends were approaching; there was no time to lose.

"Miss Deerfield, may I?"

"Yes, you may," said Elizabeth Deerfield, with a sweet little catch in her voice that meant much to the man beside her.

Philadelphia's New Cave.

Philadelphia has a new cave. The sinking of a piece of ground in the northeast corner of Washington square, in that city, a few feet from the monument erected to the memory of the revolutionary prisoners of war who died in the jails of Philadelphia, revealed a small cavern of a depth of about six feet. Through this at a short distance from the surface extend the roots of a large tree, whose safety is menaced by the cavity. At the bottom appear to be the remains of some old-time brickyard, of which the exact character cannot readily be determined, but which certain local wiseacres associate with the Walnut street prison. As Washington square was once a potter's field, and as the old prison stood facing the square, the excavations resulting from this cavern may present a subject for Philadelphia antiquarians.

Victories are like fish: you can't bring them up to be caught, but you must go where they are to get them.

BACK TO FRANKLIN THEORY.

Modern Scientists May Be Forced to Rehabilitate It.

More than a hundred years have elapsed since Benjamin Franklin, employing a phraseology now superseded, put forth a theory of matter, says a writer in Current Literature. It was pronounced "a delusion" by the physicists of the nineteenth century, but the scientists of the twentieth century, according to Sir Oliver Lodge, may be forced to rehabilitate it as the only means of issue from the labyrinth in which all physical study is now involved. Stripped of technical verbiage and put briefly, the Franklin theory is that electricity and matter in combination form a neutral substance, which is the atom of matter as we know it. The most interesting part of the problem for ourselves, says Sir Oliver, is the explanation of matter in terms of electricity, the view that electricity, as Franklin seems to have supposed, the fundamental "substance." What we men of to-day have been accustomed to regard as an indivisible atom of matter is thus built up out of electricity. All atoms—atoms of all sorts of "substances"—are built up of the same thing. In our day, to put it more clearly, the theoretical and proximate achievement of what philosophers from Franklin's day to ours have always sought—a unification of matter—is offering itself to physical inquiry.

SERVANT PROBLEM IN CUBA.

Cook Is in Sole Charge of the Domestic Cusine.

The Cuban matron has little to say in the management of her own household, as the family literally board with their cook, who has sole control of the cusine. When a cook is engaged she is paid so much per month—$10, $15 or $20, as the case may be—for her work. She at once inquires how much is allowed for the marketing, which she is to do each morning. On being told, she figures out how much she can save from the amount, and if the graft amount to say 15 or 20 cents per day, she is likely to accept the position. She rarely sleeps at the house, and usually has a family of her own who are fed from the larder of her employer. Early breakfast is light—fruit, rolls and coffee—and at noon there is a meal known as late breakfast, which resembles the American luncheon. When this is finished the cook spends a few hours at her home and returns at five o'clock in time to prepare dinner. A half-grown girl is employed to wait on the table, answer the door bell, etc. In some families male cooks are employed. If the meals do not suit the master of the house he adds more money to the marketing allowance.—Mrs. C. R. Miller, in Leslie's Weekly.

Hard to Answer.

One day Robert Herrick, the novelist, was impressing upon his class in English literature, in the University of Chicago, the importance of reading what had been written with a purpose and had character and power. He contrasted forcefully such literature with the light, vapid, frivolous sort that seemed to appeal to such a large percentage of readers. He then asked each student to tell him frankly which kind he was reading. After nearly all had confessed to something light, he came to a tall westerner, who showed a tendency to evade the question. "It can't be possible, I hope," said Herrick, "that you are not reading anything?" "No, it is not that," replied the westerner. "The fact is, I am reading your latest novel, and I can't decide to which class it belongs."—Lippincott's Magazine.

His High Estimation of Steam.

Carlyle once startled the English-speaking people into recognition of the value of their great dramatist by suddenly asking the British public which it would rather lose, Shakespeare or India? I thought of that the other day, muses the editor of the Ruder, when I was reading an article on steam navigation. What would the world rather lose than steam? What? Why, almost everything; our literature, our art, our religions. Nothing we have is so valuable as steam. It is the greatest civilizer the world has ever possessed.

Tom Reed's Birthplace.

The birthplace of the late Speaker Reed, which is about to be torn down, is in the heart of Portland's Italian quarter and is now a tenement, swarming with sons and daughters of sunny Italy. How much they are impressed with the greatness of their surroundings was shown when a visitor, desiring to get a look at the celebrated statesman's birthplace, asked a boy if he would show him the "Tom Reed house." "Tomma Reed! Tomma Reed! You mean Tomma Reed, da milkaman?"

Assimilation.

"Your country has wonderful powers of assimilation, truly." "Wonderful! Nothing like it. Take the rawest foreigners that come here and I warrant you they will have indigestion or a good start toward it in the second generation, and in the third will be living as far beyond their means as many to the manor born. Yes, sir, whatever the material, we work it up."

At the Dinner Table.

"Who is that handsome man over there?" "That is Louis XIV." "How absurd! What do you mean?" "Well, his name is Louis, and he is always invited when there happens to be 13 at table."—Translated for Tales from "Illegende Blatter."

RUN OVER AND KILLED.

East Berlin, July 29.—A sad accident happened last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock near this town and when the news reached this place a gloom was cast over the town and neighborhood. Emory Mummert, who keeps the toll gate on Hanover and Berlin pike about a mile from East Berlin on Monday July 22 went to help his brother, Howard Mummert at threshing. The latter lives on Mrs. Joseph Diehl's farm, one and a half miles from New Oxford on the Carlisle pike. All went well until Saturday. That morning at 11 o'clock the two brothers were on the barn bridge backing a wagon over the floor. Emory was in the rear attending to the brake. The brake suddenly gave away. His brother called to him to run, but it is supposed he jumped to the wrong side. The wagon ran over the bridge and upset. One wheel went over his breast. His head was wedged tight between the wing wall and coupling pole and it took five men to release the body from the position. He was dead before he was gotten out. One side of his face was very much bruised. He was aged 23 years. Mr. Mummert was a quiet, industrious young man held in high respect. A. B. Trimmer, undertaker, took charge of the body, bringing it to his home at the toll gate. The funeral was held yesterday—Tuesday—morning at 10 o'clock, services by Revs. C. L. Baker and Dieterrich of New Chester, interment at Mummert's meeting house. He leaves a wife, who was Miss Edna Strasbaugh, daughter of Samuel Strasbaugh of this place, and two children two and four years old. Deceased is a son of Michael Mummert of near New Chester.

The Gospel Workers had a public meeting on the street on Sunday morning almost opposite the Lutheran church. They waited until the churches were dismissed, then opened their meeting with singing.

The grain is all cut and away. Some of it is threshed and has turned out well, yielding from 20 to 27 bushels to the acre.

HURT IN A RUNAWAY

Arendtsville, July 29.—Last Tuesday when Edward Orner, one of our butchers, was in the act of weighing out some meat for Mrs. David Thomas in Menallan Twp., his horse switched the lines out of the wagon and started to run off. Mr. Orner jumped out of the wagon and caught him, but was knocked down and run over by the horse and wagon, his cheek bone was crushed in and he was otherwise scratched and bruised. Mr. Thomas brought him home and Dr. Merriman gave him medical aid. The horse received a severe cut in one of his front legs from a broken shaft, the wagon escaped with one wheel wrecked and a broken shaft, the horse ran about two miles with the wagon attached, he was caught at C. S. Rice's farm by Edwin Rice.

The festival held by the base ball team Saturday evening, July 20th, was very successful and the team wishes to take this opportunity to extend its thanks to the young ladies and all others who helped make the festival a success.

Last Saturday the base ball team went to Fairfield and was defeated by the team of that place in a close and exciting contest, the score being 5 to 4. Funt was in fine form and fielded his position brilliantly, allowing his opponents only five hits and having ten strike outs to his credit. Low for Fairfield had four strike outs and was touched up by our boys for six hits. F.

GOOD YEAR FOR THE FARMER.

Barlow, July 29. And now the click of the binder which was heard for the last two weeks is silent and the golden grain cut and bound into sheaves is being gathered into barns and sheds By this time most of it is housed, it was very hard harvest to gather on account of the wet weather. The husbandman breathes easier as he contemplates the fruits of his labor.

The gathering of the timothy will be satisfactory as the crop in this section is good.

Oats will be next to claim the farmers attention. It will be good in the straw if the rust in the oats does not injure the grain.

We are glad to say the growing corn looks very promising in places. It is too wet for corn on low ground, grass and weeds taking the lead for want of cultivation.

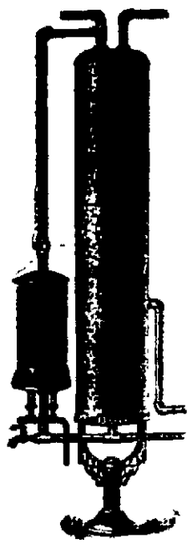

The steam whistle can be heard in all directions but have not heard any report of the yield of wheat, but rye is poor.

Miss Dortha Sharetts of this place showed your correspondent the other day a York Imperial apple of 1906, sound and solid as the day picked.

John W. Bollinger of near this place was seen the other day as he was going to the store, with a smile on his face that could be seen for a long distance and tiping his hat to all passersby and the cause was soon made known. It is a girl. J.F.S.

The Question in Many Households in Summer

How to have hot water without the heat and trouble and expense of a hot coal or wood range?

THE GAS WATER HEATER fully and completely answers the question. They can be attached to the boiler or arranged independent of boilers and two cents worth of gas will give a supply of water for a warm bath.

The Gas Water Heater is an indispensable convenience of a summer day.

With a Gas Range added you eliminate all possible heat and the home is as comfortable as it can be made.

Oil is the greatest and surest fortune maker the world has ever known. An oil company gets the product from the ground at an expense of about 5 cents per barrel and oil today is worth about $1.75 per barrel.

Robt. Rawlins, an oil expert, after examining the Adams County tract said, "I observed a scum on the surface of the water. It reflected the color of petroleum. A paper spread on the surface of the water where this scum appeared would burn while still wet. The paper must have absorbed oil. A bottle containing a little oil collected from certain springs certainly contained petroleum. I found several of the springs and streams contained gas, this gas I recognized as similar to what I have found in oil fields. Many oil fields of the world have been located by the appearance of oil on the surface of the water. And I believe that there is a subteranean oil strata."

Capital of the Company is 100,000 shares at $5 per share. Only a limited amount of stock is being offered, just enough for development purposes. A quantity of this stock has been sold in Connecticut and other distant points.

Work Has Begun

15,000 feet of lumber is ready for the first derrick. Contract for drilling is closed. Machinery is arriving and it is a matter of days until the drill begins on its voyage of discovery. Preparations have been made to go down about 3,000 feet.

Many Adams County people have invested their money far from home and sometimes lost it.

Here is a chance to spend money to help discover the natural resources of the country and if the drill opens up fortunes you can have the satisfaction of not only having aided in the development of the home county but also enjoying a share in what is found.

A small amount of the capital stock is offered to Adams County people at $3 a share, par value $5, for a limited period.
